

Welcome to Norwich, VT!

You're walking through the town green. Where are you headed?

- Dan & Whit's
- King Arthur Flour
- Montshire Museum of Science

You arrive at Dan & Whit's, the general store in Norwich. What do you do first?

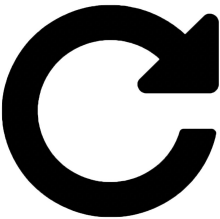

- Check the bulletin board outside
- Head straight into the store

While looking at the bulletin board, a sign catches your eye. It reads, “Hiking Partner for Appalachian Trail Wanted” and lists a phone number beneath. Do you call the number?

- Yes! You’ve always wanted to hike the Appalachian trail.
- No, that seems a little sketchy. I’ll just do my shopping.

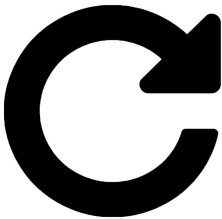

You call the number and meet up with the other hiker, who happens to be a centaur. Then you're off to the trail. Happy hiking!

You walk inside the store and look around.
What are you going to buy?

- The newspaper
- Some milk

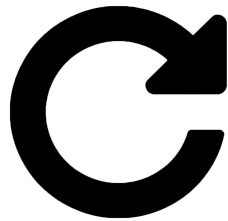

After purchasing the newspaper, you check the print date. It says that the year is 1791. While reading the paper, you learn that the newspaper was a time machine that transported you to the year Norwich was founded. Good luck getting out of that!

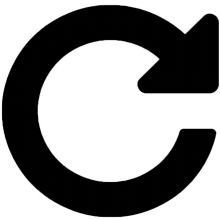

You purchase the milk and head back to your cousin's house. What do you use the milk for?

- A bowl of cereal
- A cake

You fix yourself a bowl of cereal and start eating. As you finish your bowl you start to feel a little sick. Before long, you have grown black and white fur and turned into a cow. Someone must have poisoned the milk. You live the rest of your days as a dairy cow at one of the many dairy farms in Vermont.

You bake a cake using the milk. Good idea!
The poison that turns you into a cow baked off in the oven. Enjoy your poison-less dessert!

You arrive at King Arthur Flour and walk into the lobby. Which direction do you go?

- Left (towards the gift shop)
- Forward (into the bakery)
- Right (towards the classrooms)

You head into the gift shop and look around for a while. Do you buy anything?

- Yes, a scone mix!
- No, I don't really want to bake anything.

You go back to your cousin's house and make the scones. It said that they were maple brown sugar scones but after baking them it seems like they are actually asparagus flavored. Ew! Better luck next time.

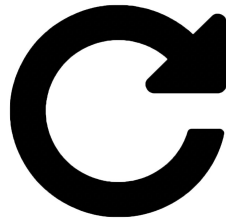

You leave the gift shop and head back into the main room. Where do you go?

- The bakery
- The classrooms

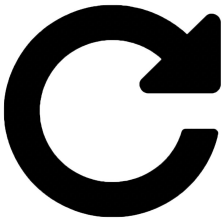

You get in line at the bakery. What are you getting to eat?

- A loaf of bread
- A chocolate croissant

You buy your loaf of bread and take it back to your cousin's house with some fresh Vermont cheese. Good choice!

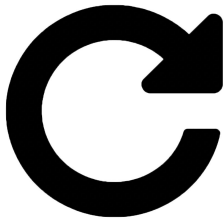

You buy your chocolate croissant and are sitting outside King Arthur Flour when a deer grabs the croissant right out of your hand. What a shame!

You walk down to the hallway to the classrooms and see a pasta making class already in session. What do you do?

- Barge in and see if you can participate
- Sign up for a class another time

You barge into the pasta making class and ask if there are any open spots. Unfortunately, the teacher is an angry bear who doesn't appreciate you interrupting her class and she eats you. Whoops!

You sign up for a pasta making class starting in a few minutes. When the class ends, you have some tasty ravioli to enjoy for dinner. Bon appetit!
